Remote != Asynchrone

Les fuseaux horaires nous obligent à être asynchrones par défaut.

Folks,

As many of us settle into working from home, now's a good chance to get on the same page about what, realistically, that entails and how we can best support one another.

While you're working from home, you should:

- Respond within just a few minutes to a Slack or Google Hangout message from your colleagues. Let your manager know when you are taking a break, conducting an interview, in a meeting, or will otherwise be unavailable for a while.
- Make sure your cell-phone number is readily accessible -- in your email signature, in your Slack status, in Workday, etc.
- Keep your phone's ringer turned on and answer it when it rings. Now is not the time to screen calls.
- Turn on the camera during Google Hangouts, unless it weakens the connection to an unacceptable level.
